

Resolution 1948 (2013)¹
Provisional version

Tackling discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity

Parliamentary Assembly

1. The Parliamentary Assembly welcomes the positive developments in tackling discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity which have occurred since the adoption of its Resolution 1728 \(2010\), such as the introduction, by different Council of Europe member States, of specific legislative measures, action plans and strategies to promote equality and tackle discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons (LGBTs) as well as to tackle homophobic and transphobic speech and violence.
2. Despite this progress, the Assembly regrets that prejudice, hostility and discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity remain a serious problem, affecting the lives of tens of millions of Europeans. They manifest themselves in hate speech, bullying and violence, often affecting young people. They also manifest themselves through the repeated infringement of the right of peaceful assembly for LGBTs.
3. The Assembly acknowledges that societal changes require time and occur unevenly within the same country, let alone between different countries. However, the Assembly also believes that politicians, through their example and discourse, as well as laws, through their binding nature, are powerful driving forces to promote changes in society and ensure that the respect for human rights is not only a legal obligation but also a shared value.
4. In this regard, the Assembly expresses concern vis-à-vis homophobic statements by politicians and other personalities in a position of authority, which, far from being manifestations of freedom of expression, amount to hate speech and incitement to hostility, discrimination and violence.
5. Furthermore, the Assembly expresses deep concern at the introduction, at local, regional and finally at national or federal level, of legislation or draft legislation on the prohibition of so-called homosexual propaganda, in a number of Council of Europe member States. These laws and draft laws, which are at variance with freedom of expression and the prohibition of discrimination on account of sexual orientation and gender identity, risk legitimising the prejudice and hostility which is present in society and fuelling a climate of hatred against LGBTs.
6. The Assembly also expresses deep concern at the recent conviction of two organisations, the Side by Side LGBT film festival and the LGBT human rights group “Coming Out”, under the “Foreign Agents” Law. Not only does this law violate international human rights principles, but concerns have been expressed that the trials were not subject to due process. The targeting of these LGBT non-governmental organisations (NGOs) under the “Foreign Agents” Law, together with the proposed law prohibiting so-called “propaganda of non-traditional sexual relations”, constitute a serious threat to any advocacy for LGBT rights in Russia.

1. Assembly debate on 27 June 2013 (26th Sitting) (see Doc. 13223, report of the Committee on Equality and Non-Discrimination, rapporteur: Mr Haugli). Text adopted by the Assembly on 27 June 2013 (26th Sitting).
See also Recommendation 2021 \(2013\).

7. The Assembly particularly deplores the unanimous approval by the Russian Duma of the draft law on so-called “Propaganda of non-traditional sexual relationships among minors” which, if approved also by the Council of the Federation, would be the first piece of legislation on the prohibition of homosexual propaganda being introduced at national level in Europe.

8. In this context, the Assembly takes note of the Opinion of the European Commission for Democracy through Law (Venice Commission) on the issue of the prohibition of so-called “propaganda of homosexuality” in the light of recent legislation in some member States of the Council of Europe; it shares its analysis and endorses its findings, notably that “the measures in question appear to be incompatible with the underlying values of the [European Convention on Human Rights]”, in addition to their failure to meet the requirements for restrictions prescribed by Articles 10, 11 and 14 of the Convention.

9. In the light of these considerations, reaffirming the continued validity of its Resolution 1728 \(2010\) on discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity, the Assembly calls on Council of Europe member States:

9.1. as regards equality and non-discrimination, to:

9.1.1. ensure the full protection of human rights for all those who are subject to their jurisdiction, including the prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.1.2. ensure that any new legal and policy instrument they adopt in the area of equality and non-discrimination explicitly includes sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.1.3. introduce, without delay, civil legislation protecting against discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in all areas of life, including employment, education, health, access to goods and services, housing, access to social security and social advantages;

9.1.4. devise and implement national action plans/strategies aimed at promoting equality and non-discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.1.5. introduce clear regulations on public duty, mandating the public services to refrain from discriminating on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.1.6. involve LGBT and human rights organisations in consultations on draft laws and policies concerning discrimination;

9.1.7. adopt criminal legislation introducing sexual orientation and gender identity as grounds for prosecution of hate crimes;

9.1.8. introduce binding guidelines for law-enforcement officials to ensure that any alleged hate motive associated with a crime, including hate motives on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity, is promptly, impartially, effectively and thoroughly investigated and duly taken into account in the prosecution and sentencing of those crimes;

9.2. as regards incitement to harassment or violence on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity, to:

9.2.1. improve data collection on homophobic and transphobic crimes, as well as on discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.2.2. organise public campaigns on equality and diversity, as well as against incitement to harassment or violence on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.2.3. ensure that projects against bullying in schools do not discriminate on any grounds, with a special emphasis on prevention, addressed to and involving students, teachers and school staff;

9.2.4. train police, judiciary and administration officials on homophobia, transphobia and the prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

9.2.5. set up complaint and support mechanisms for victims of homophobic and transphobic violence, such as hotlines and specific social services, equipped with specialised staff;

10. As regards specific situations of concern, the Assembly calls on:
 - 10.1. the authorities that exercise de facto control in the northern part of Cyprus to give full execution to the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of Modinos v. Cyprus and ensure the decriminalisation of consensual same-sex relations between adults, as in the Government-controlled areas of the Republic of Cyprus;
 - 10.2. the authorities of Poland to give full execution to the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of Bączkowski and Others v. Poland;
 - 10.3. the competent authorities of the Republic of Moldova to give full execution to the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of Genderdoc-M v. Moldova; to comply with judicial decisions quashing legislation on the prohibition of so-called homosexual propaganda; and to repeal it if they have not yet done so;
 - 10.4. the authorities of the Russian Federation to give full execution to the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of Alekseyev v. Russia;
 - 10.5. the Russian authorities to halt further action under the “Foreign Agents” Law against the Side by Side LGBT film festival and “Coming Out”, to ensure due process in any appeal proceedings by these organisations against their conviction under this law, and to cease further prosecutions of LGBT human rights organisations for not registering as “foreign agents”;
 - 10.6. the Russian Council of the Federation to reject the law on so-called “Propaganda of non-traditional sexual relationships among minors”;
 - 10.7. the Parliament of Ukraine not to pursue the examination of the draft law on the prohibition of so-called “homosexual propaganda”;
 - 10.8. the relevant local and regional authorities in the Russian Federation to repeal legislation on the prohibition of so-called homosexual propaganda;
 - 10.9. the authorities of Georgia to carry out a prompt investigation into the attack by the violent counter-demonstrators against the participants of the rally against Homophobia on 17 May 2013, and hold accountable those who incited and committed violent acts;
 - 10.10. the Parliament of Lithuania not to pursue the examination of proposals to introduce administrative penalties for so-called “public denigration of constitutional moral values and of constitutional fundamentals of family life”.
11. As regards the role of public figures, including parliamentarians, politicians and other people in a position of authority, the Assembly:
 - 11.1. invites them to establish a relationship of dialogue and trust with the LGBT community, also by taking part in Pride marches and similar events;
 - 11.2. calls on them to refrain from homophobic and transphobic discourse and to publicly condemn it;
 - 11.3. proposes to organise awareness-raising activities aimed at parliamentarians on the prevention of homophobia and transphobia, as well as the promotion of Council of Europe standards in the area of non-discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity.