I. Introduction

1. The present report is submitted pursuant to General Assembly resolution 68/237, entitled “Proclamation of the International Decade for People of African Descent”. In resolution 68/237, the Assembly requested the President of the Assembly, through the facilitator, to continue consultations with States members of the Assembly and other stakeholders, with a view to elaborating a programme for the implementation of the International Decade for People of African Descent, with a draft programme developed by the Intergovernmental Working Group on the Effective Implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action as its basis, to be finalized and adopted during the sixty-eighth session of the Assembly and not later than 30 June 2014.

2. The Human Rights Council, in its resolution 25/33, entitled “International Decade for People of African Descent”, requested the Intergovernmental Working Group to dedicate its programme of work at its twelfth session to the purposes of elaborating a draft programme of activities for the implementation of the International Decade for People of African Descent.

3. In the present report, the Intergovernmental Working Group identifies objectives and concrete activities to be conducted at the national, regional and international levels during the International Decade for People of African Descent. The report is based on the contributions received by the Intergovernmental Working Group from Member States and other stakeholders during its twelfth session. It draws on the contributions submitted by the Working Group of Experts on People of African Descent, the Secretary-General and the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination.

4. The Intergovernmental Working Group takes note with appreciation of the work undertaken by the Working Group of Experts on People of African Descent and the Secretary-General in their respective reports on the International Decade for People of African descent. The content of the draft programme of activities is firmly anchored in the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action, the outcome document of the Durban Review Conference,¹ the political declaration of the high-level meeting of the General Assembly to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action² and the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, among other important human rights instruments.

II. Draft programme of activities

A. Background

5. The International Decade for People of African Descent to be observed from 2015 to 2024, constitutes an auspicious period of history when the United Nations, Member States, civil society and all other relevant actors will join together with people of African descent and take effective measures for the implementation of the programme of activities in the spirit of recognition, justice and development. The programme of activities recognizes that the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action is a comprehensive United Nations framework and a solid foundation for combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and represent a new stage in the efforts of the United Nations and the international community to restore the rights and dignity of people of African descent.

6. The implementation of the programme of activities for the International Decade is an integral part of the full and effective implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action and in compliance with the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination as the principal international instruments for the elimination of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. Important synergies should therefore be achieved through the International Decade in the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

7. The Durban Declaration and Programme of Action acknowledged that people of African descent were victims of slavery, the slave trade and colonialism, and continue to be victims of their consequences. The Durban process raised the visibility of people of African descent and contributed to a substantive advancement in the promotion and protection of their rights as a result of concrete actions taken by States, the United Nations, other international and regional bodies and civil society.

8. Regrettably, despite the above-mentioned advances, racism and racial discrimination, both direct and indirect, de facto and de jure, continue to manifest themselves in inequality and disadvantage. People of African descent throughout the world, whether as descendants of the victims of the transatlantic slave trade or as more recent migrants, constitute some of the poorest and most marginalized groups. Studies and findings by international and national bodies demonstrate that people of African descent still have limited access to quality education, health services, housing and social security. In many cases, their situation remains largely invisible, and insufficient recognition and respect has been given to the efforts of people of African descent to seek redress for their present condition. They all too often experience discrimination in their access to justice, and face alarmingly high rates of police violence, together with racial profiling. Furthermore, their degree of political participation is often low, both in voting and in occupying political positions.

9. People of African descent can suffer from multiple, aggravated or intersecting forms of discrimination based on other related grounds, such as age, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, social origin, property, disability, birth, or other status.

10. The promotion and protection of human rights of people of African descent should be a priority concern for the United Nations. In this regard, the international Decade for People of African Descent is a timely and important initiative, a unique opportunity to underline the important contribution made by people of African descent to our societies and to propose concrete measures to promote their full inclusion and to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

B. Theme of the International Decade

11. As proclaimed by the General Assembly in its resolution 68/237, the theme for the International Decade is “People of African descent: recognition, justice and development”.

C. Objectives of the International Decade

12. Non-discrimination and equality before and of the law constitute fundamental principles of international human rights law, and underpin the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the main international human rights treaties and instruments. As such, the main objective of the International Decade should be to promote respect, protection and fulfilment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms by people of African descent, as recognized in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. This main objective can be achieved through the full and effective implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action, the outcome document of the Durban Review Conference, the political declaration commemorating the tenth anniversary of the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action,² and through the universal accession to or ratification of, and full implementation of the obligations arising under the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and other relevant international and regional human rights instruments.

13. The International Decade shall focus on the following specific objectives:

(a) To strengthen national, regional and international action and cooperation in relation to the full enjoyment of economic, social, cultural, civil and political rights by people of African descent, and their full and equal participation in all aspects of society;

(b) To promote a greater knowledge of and respect for the diverse heritage, culture and contribution of people of African descent to the development of societies;

(c) To adopt and strengthen national, regional and international legal frameworks in accordance with the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action and the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, and to ensure their full and effective implementation.

III. Activities to be conducted during the International Decade

A. National level

14. States should take concrete and practical steps through the adoption and effective implementation of national and international legal frameworks, policies and programmes to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance faced by people of African descent, taking into account the particular situation of women, girls and young males, by, inter alia, the activities described below.

1. Recognition

16. States should:

(c) Promote greater knowledge and recognition of and respect for the culture, history and heritage of people of African descent, including through research and education, and promote full and accurate inclusion of the history and contribution of people of African descent in educational curricula;

(d) Promote the positive role that political leaders and political parties, leaders of religious communities and the media could further play in fighting racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance by, inter alia, publicly recognizing and respecting the culture, history and heritage of people of African descent;

(e) Raise awareness through information and education measures with a view to restoring the dignity of people of African descent, and consider making available the support for such activities to non-governmental organizations;

(f) Support education and training initiatives for non-governmental organizations and people of African descent in the use of the tools provided by international human rights instruments relating to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

(g) Ensure that textbooks and other educational materials reflect historical facts accurately as they relate to past tragedies and atrocities, in particular slavery, the slave trade, the transatlantic slave trade and colonialism, so as to avoid stereotypes and the distortion or falsification of these historic facts, which may lead to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including the role of respective countries therein, by:

- (i) Supporting research and educational initiatives;
- (ii) Giving recognition to the victims and their descendants through the establishment of memorial sites in countries that [benefited from] [profited from and/or were responsible for] slavery, the slave trade, the transatlantic slave trade and colonialism and past tragedies where there is none, as well as at departure, arrival and relocation points, and by protecting related cultural sites.

(c) Information-gathering

17. In accordance with paragraph 92 of the Durban Programme of Action, States should collect, compile, analyse, disseminate and publish reliable statistical data at the national and local levels, and take all other related measures necessary to assess regularly the situation of people of African descent who are victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

18. Such statistical data should be disaggregated in accordance with national legislation. Any such information [shall] / [should], as appropriate, be collected with the explicit consent of the victims, based on their self-identification and in accordance with provisions on [international] human rights [law] and fundamental freedoms, [such as]/ [as well as] data protection regulations and privacy guarantees.

[18. alt. Such statistical data should be disaggregated in accordance with national legislation, upholding the right to privacy and the principle of self-identification.]

19. The information should be collected to monitor the situation of People of African Descent, assess progress made, increase their visibility, and identify social gaps. It should also be used to assess and guide the formulation of policies and actions to prevent, combat and eradicate racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

(d) Participation and inclusion

20. States should adopt measures to enable the full, equal and effective participation of people of African descent in public and political affairs without discrimination, in accordance with international human rights law.

2. Justice

(a) Access to justice

21. States should take further measures, by:

(a) Introducing measures to ensure equality before the law, notably in the enjoyment of the right to equal treatment before the tribunals and all other organs administering justice;

(b) Designing, implementing and enforcing effective measures to eliminate the phenomenon popularly known as “racial profiling” and comprising the practice of police and other law enforcement officers [relying, to any degree] [based solely] [placing unwarranted reliance] on race, colour, descent or national or ethnic origin as the basis for subjecting persons to investigatory activities or for determining whether an individual is engaged in criminal activity;

[(b) (alt.) Designing, implementing and enforcing effective measures to eliminate the phenomenon popularly known as “racial profiling”];]

(c) Eliminating institutionalized stereotypes concerning people of African descent and apply appropriate sanctions against law enforcements officials who act on the basis of racial profiling;

(g) Preventing and punishing all human rights violations affecting people of African descent, including violence, acts of torture, inhuman or degrading treatment, including those committed by State officials;

(h) Ensuring that people of African descent, like all other persons, enjoy all the guarantees of a fair trial and equality before the law as enshrined in relevant international human rights instruments, and specifically the right to the presumption of innocence, the right to assistance of counsel and to an interpreter, the right to an independent and impartial tribunal, guarantees of justice, and all the rights to which prisoners are entitled;

(i) Acknowledging and profoundly regretting the untold suffering and evils inflicted on millions of men, women and children as a result of slavery, the slave trade, the transatlantic slave trade, colonialism, apartheid, genocide and past tragedies, noting that some States have taken the initiative to apologize and have paid reparation, where appropriate, for grave and massive violations committed, and calling on those that have not yet expressed remorse or presented apologies to find some way to contribute to the restoration of the dignity of victims;

(j) Inviting the international community and its members to honour the memory of the victims of these tragedies with a view to closing those dark chapters in history and as a means of reconciliation and healing; further noting that some have taken the initiative of regretting or expressing remorse or presenting apologies, and call on all those who have not yet contributed to restoring the dignity of the victims to find appropriate ways to do so and, to this end, appreciate those countries that have done so;

(k) Calling upon all States concerned to take appropriate and effective measures to halt and reverse the lasting consequences of those practices, bearing in mind their moral obligations.

(b) Special measures

22. The adoption of special measures, such as affirmative action, where appropriate is essential to alleviating and remedying disparities in the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms affecting people of African descent, protecting them from discrimination and overcoming persistent or structural disparities and de facto inequalities resulting from historical circumstances. As such, States should develop or elaborate national plans of action to promote diversity, equality, social justice, equality of opportunity and the participation of all. By means of, inter alia, affirmative or positive actions and strategies, these plans should aim at creating conditions for all to participate effectively in decision-making and to realize civil, cultural, economic, political and social rights in all spheres of life on the basis of non-discrimination.

3. Development

(a) Right to development and measures against poverty

23. Consistent with the Declaration on the Right to Development, States should adopt measures aimed at guaranteeing active, free and meaningful participation by all individuals, including people of African descent, in development and decision-making related thereto and in the fair distribution of benefits resulting therefrom.

24. Recognizing that poverty is both a cause and a consequence of discrimination, States should, as appropriate, adopt or strengthen national programmes for eradicating poverty and reducing social exclusion that take account of the specific needs and experiences of people of African descent, and should also expand their efforts to foster bilateral, regional and international cooperation in implementing those programmes.

25. States should implement actions to protect ancestral groups of people of African descent.

(b) Education

26. States should take all necessary measures to give effect to the right of people of African descent, particularly children and young people, to free primary education and access to all levels and forms of quality public education without discrimination. States should:

(a) Ensure that quality education is accessible and available in areas where communities of African descent live, particularly in rural and marginalized communities, with attention to improving the quality of public education;

(b) Take measures to ensure that public and private education systems do not discriminate against or exclude children of African descent, and that they are protected from direct or indirect discrimination, negative stereotyping, stigmatization and violence from peers or teachers; to this end, training and sensitization should be provided to teachers and measures should be taken to increase the number of teachers of African descent working in educational institutions.

(c) Employment

States should take concrete measures to eliminate racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance in the workplace against [all workers of African descent, including migrants of African descent,] [all workers, in particular people of African descent, including migrants,] and ensure the full equality of all before the law, including labour law, and eliminate barriers, where appropriate, to participation in vocational training, collective bargaining, employment, contracts and trade union activity; access to judicial and administrative tribunals dealing with grievances; seeking employment in different parts of their country of residence; and working in safe and healthy conditions.

(d) Health

28. States should take measures to improve access to quality health services to people of African descent.

(e) Housing

29. Recognizing the poor and insecure housing conditions in which many people of African descent live, States should develop and implement policies and projects as appropriate aimed at, inter alia, ensuring that they gain and sustain a safe and secure home and community in which to live in peace and dignity.

4. Multiple or aggravated discrimination

30. States should adopt and implement policies and programmes that provide effective protection for, and review and repeal all policies and laws that could discriminate against, people of African descent facing multiple, aggravated or intersecting forms of discrimination based on other related grounds, such as sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, social origin, property, birth, disability or other status.

31. States should mainstream a gender perspective when designing and monitoring public policies, taking into account the specific needs and realities of women and girls of African descent, including in the area of sexual and reproductive rights, and ensure adequate access to maternal health care.

B. Regional and international levels

1. Steps to be taken by the international community, and international and regional organizations

32. The international community, international and regional organizations, in particular relevant United Nations programmes, funds, specialized agencies and other bodies, international financial and development institutions, regional organizations and other international mechanisms within their areas of competence should give high priority to programmes and projects specifically tailored for combating racism and racial discrimination against people of African descent, taking fully into account the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action, the outcome document of the Durban Review Conference, the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the political declaration of the high-level meeting of the General Assembly to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action, and, should, inter alia:

Letter dated 16 May 2014 from the Chairperson-Rapporteur of the Intergovernmental Working Group on the Effective Implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action addressed to the President of the Human Rights Council

The General Assembly, in its resolution 68/237 of 23 December 2013, requested the Intergovernmental Working Group on the Effective Implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action to develop a draft programme for the implementation of the International Decade for People of African Descent, to be finalized and adopted during the sixty-eighth session of the Assembly and not later than 30 June 2014.

In its resolution 25/33 of 28 March 2014, the Human Rights Council emphasized the need to urgently heed the instruction of the General Assembly, and in this regard requested the Intergovernmental Working Group to dedicate its programme of work at its twelfth session to the for purposes of elaborating a programme of activities for the implementation of the International Decade for People of African Descent and to present its final report in this regard to the Council at its twenty-sixth session for adoption and transmission to the General Assembly.

The Intergovernmental Working Group held its twelfth session from 7 to 17 April 2014. Further consultations were also held from 29 April to 2 May 2014 and on 8 and 9 May 2014. The report of the Intergovernmental Working Group (A/HRC/26/55) contains a draft programme of activities for the International Decade for People of African Descent. The draft programme identifies objectives and concrete activities to be conducted at the national, regional and international levels.

As requested by the Human Rights Council in its resolution 25/33, the draft programme draws from the already developed and existing draft programme of action for the Decade for People of African Descent (A/HRC/21/60/Add.2) as already elaborated by the Working Group of Experts on People of African Descent and discussed in the report of the Secretary-General on how to make the International Decade for People of African Descent effective (A/67/879). Written contributions were received from some Member States and regional groups. The Working Group took also into account the contributions previously received from the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. Some non-governmental organizations also attended the session.

While the Intergovernmental Working Group has made significant progress, the draft programme still contains some paragraphs (contained inside square brackets) on which consensus was not reached. On these particular paragraphs and issues, further consultations will be needed during the session of the General Assembly, as provided for in Assembly resolution 68/237, in which the Assembly requested the President of the Assembly, through the facilitator, to continue consultations with States members of the Assembly and other stakeholders, with a view to elaborating a programme for the implementation of the International Decade, with a draft programme developed by the Intergovernmental Working Group as its basis, to be finalized and adopted during the sixty-eighth session of the Assembly and not later than 30 June 2014.

While there is a clear need for broader and deeper consultations, I would strongly recommend that such consultations focus on the bracketed paragraphs, as reflected in the report of the Intergovernmental Working Group.

Taking into account General Assembly resolution 68/237 and that the programme needs to be adopted by the Assembly not later than 30 June 2014, it is important that the Human Rights Council consider the report and take appropriate action on item 9 of its agenda at the earliest date possible. I therefore request you, Mr. President, to discuss urgently this issue with the Bureau of the Council.
